

Gypsies And Misfits Unknown Theatre

Dear Friend and Supporter of the Theatre in Roanoke:

For the past couple of years, I have been attending plays performed by an exciting new theatre company called Gamut. I've seen Gamut's plays at the Jefferson Center and the acting is exceptional. My good friend Elizabeth acted in one of the plays by Christopher Durang and I loved it!

Although Gamut is relatively new, Artistic Director Miriam Frazier and Managing Director, Kathy Guy have been producing provocative theatre in Roanoke for years. All were the creative force behind The Acting Company which produced many great alternative-type theatre productions in the eighties and early nineties. My brother Philip was on the board of The Acting Company and is also now on the board of Gamut.

Gamut now has a permanent space to perform at Studio Roanoke. Please visit their website at studioroanoke.org to find out more about the space, and you will be able to click on a link to GAMUT as well.

Gamut attracts a varied and well-informed audience so I think it will be an excellent way to advertise your (company, service) while supporting a key player in the Roanoke theatre scene. Ad prices are very reasonable as you will see on one of the following pages. You may also choose to be a Gamut Friend, Beloved Misfit, or a Glorious Gypsy, and your donation is tax-deductible!

The best thing about Gamut is that they produce theatre works that are seldom performed for audiences in Roanoke, not to mention, unparalleled entertainment for slightly above the price of a movie ticket!

Stated Purpose of Gamut (Gypsies And Misfits Unknown Theatre) Theatre Company:

Our goal is to make available to Roanoke actors and audiences opportunities to produce and see alternative or under-produced theatre. Hand-in-hand with this objective we seek to provide not only training for actors and technicians, but theatrical experiences which strive for a level of professionalism beyond a community theatre mind-set while still remaining firmly planted within the community. Gamut is a federally registered 501(c)3 non-profit organization and your donation is tax deductible within the charitable giving regulations of the Internal Revenue Service. A copy of our IRS approval letter is available upon request.

Miriam has a degree in theatre from Drew University in Madison, New Jersey and Kathy has a theatre degree from Hollins University in Roanoke, Virginia. Gamut also has a core group of members that include people with a wide range of theatre and business experience.

Production History: Gamut was formed in the spring of 2008 and had been performing in the Recital Hall at the Jefferson Center in Roanoke, Virginia until their recent relocation to Studio Roanoke at 30 Campbell Avenue, also in Roanoke. Our productions to date have been: Short Plays by Harold Pinter, Reckless by Craig Lucas, Art by Yazmina Reza, Short Plays by Christopher Durang, and Criminal Minds by Robin Swicord.

Production Goals: Gamut's goal is to produce three plays and/or projects per year. Projects may include acting workshops or productions geared directly to fundraising. We plan to continue with a strong focus on acting skill, ensemble consistency, and a wide range of unproduced or under-produced plays. We view ourselves as a "black box" theatre troupe producing plays in a more intimate setting that leaves our audiences and actors with rich subject matter for discussion.
